When the flat bed tray is used to carry a slide-in/flat bed camper, the total cargo load of the truck consists of the manufacturer's camper weight figure, the weight of installed additional camper equipment included in the manufacturer's camper weight figure, the weight of camper cargo, and the weight of passengers in the camper. The total cargo load should not exceed the truck's cargo weight rating and the camper's center of gravity should fall within the truck's recommended center of gravity zone when installed.

Secure loose items to prevent weight shifts that could affect the balance of your vehicle. When a truck camper is loaded onto the flat bed tray, drive to a scale and weigh on the front and on the rear wheels separately to determine axle loads. Individual axle loads should not exceed either of the gross axle weight ratings (GAWR). The total of the axle loads should not exceed the gross vehicle weight rating (GVWR). These ratings are given on the vehicle certification label that is located on the left side of the vehicle, normally the dash, hinge pillar, door latch post, or door edge next to the driver. If weight ratings exceed, move, or remove items to bring all weights below the ratings.
